Chemulpo heroes," is the popular comment. At the same time, the action of the heroic 130 men did not leave the Russians any alternative. They were obliged to sink the transport, but means of escape were left at the dis-posal of the 130 Japanese. The ability of Admiral Yeszen's ships to reach Gensan, 200 miles away, in twenty-two hours, as they did on the second expedition, is certain to compel the Japanese to be on their guard.

The papers point out the mendacity of the Japanese claims that Gensan was strongly garrisoned, and believe that the Russian advance from Plaksin bay will not meet with strong resist-The Kinshiu Maru evidently was convoying reinforcements to Song Jin. Experts here severely criticise the carelessness of sending transports with-

ALT, OVER IN A MOMENT. Captain Jokovleff Was in the Explosion of the Petropavlovsk.

Moscow, April 29.—The correspondent at Port Arthur of the Ruskalslawo telegraphs that he has had an interview with Captain Jakovleff of the Russian battle-ship Petropavlovsk. He says the captain will soon be able to start for St. Petersburg. His broken ribs are set and the fracture of his skull is healed. Captain Jakovleff said that a few seconds before the explosion he ran from the conning tower to repeat an order to the man at the helm. On his way he saw Colonel Agapeiff writing particulars of the fight which had just taken place. Next to him was Verestchagin, the artist, hurriedly drawing. All of a sudden the explosion occurred and the deck of the flagship was enveloped in a heavy mist, pierced by tongues of fire bursting through all parts of the vessel. Captain Jackovleff was then struck on the head and lost consciousness.

The same correspondent describes the sion of the Petropavlovsk.

The formalities over, the high admiral, moved with emotion, embraced Captain Roudeneff and the other officers. It was now the turn of the deputations from the nobility and municipality to present addresses of welcome and the traditional bread and salt.

Then began the triumphal march down the Nevsky of the officers and men of the variag and Korietz, marshaled in two olumns and preceded by two bands of music. The people went fairly wild over the heroes and showered them with flowers amid a mighty roar, cheering from roals, windows, balcomes and lamp posts if the surging mass below.

Near the Palace square stood the cadets of the military school. Those of the rounger class, the little fellows, aged 7, orgot to salute and instead tore off their aps and cheered lustily.

As the column of heroes approached he portals of the Winter palace the emperor and empress came out on a balcony, receted them and then retired to receive he visitors in the magnificent Nicholas iall, which had been converted into a hurch. Russia Will Not Accept Mediation From Any Source.

From Any Source.

St. Petersburg, April 23.—In the most rategorical terms Russia has officially offiled the world that she will not accept mediation to terminate the war with lapan. The official notification which accords with the authoritative announcement made by the Associated Press April 5 is contained in a circular issued by the unistry of foreign affairs to the Russian expresentative with foreign powers and azetted in the Official Messenger today. The circular denies the report that formal roposals have been made to the imperial overnment by any foreign power to use is good offices to restore peace, a denial which does not reflect personal intimation didressed directly to the emperor by fing Edward of England and King Pristian of Denmark, an account of thich was given by the Associated Press. The foreign press has recently been ersistently circulating reports concerning intentions on the pert of some Euroean governments to undertake friendly mediation with a view of bringing peace etween Russia and Japan. Telegrams ave even been received announcing that roposals of such a nature have been tade to the imperial government. You re empowered to deny this statement loost categorically. Russia did not wish ar and everything within the limits of ossibility was done by her to solve the implications which had arisen in the far ast in a peaceful manner, but after the reacherous surprise on the part of the spanese which forced Russia to take

Count Cassini.

New York, April 29.-Count Cassini, the Russian ambassador, contributes to the forthcoming number of the North American Review an article in which, under the caption of "Russia and the Far East," he makes a statement of his government's position. After briefly outling the conditions which preceded the outbreak of hostilities the ambassador says:

says:

"Russia has never ceased to wonder why the idea that she was willing and anxious to make war with Japan became so generally prevalent in the United States. Prejudiced minds, or those maying nothing beyond a superficial knowledge of the government's action preceding the unexpected attack upon our fleet at Port Arthur, may dispute the statement that Russia hoped for peace, but I have no hesitation in making it. If proof of the assertion be demanded, it lies in the simple but uncontradicted an-

Russia Not Prepared.

"For the personal representative of the Russian emperor to make an admission seemingly so humiliating to national pride may appear strange and remarkable to the people of the United States, but it is made with full appreciation of its importance and significance. I repeat that Russia was not prepared for war because she had no reason to expect war. In her faith that the negotiations with Japan were being conducted by both parties with the object of reaching an amicable and honorable adjustiment of their differences, she was not conscious that the outcome was to be other than peaceful."

PERU'S TERRITORY

Lima, Peru, April 29.—Alarming cable to find begs. From early morning every position available for witnessing the naval review was completely occupied by spectators and the magnificent Gulf of Naples was absolutely covered with craft of all kinds, from large yachts to humble fishing and rowing boats, and of all nationalities, each hoisting its colors, the French predominating. The spectacle of the French predominating. The spectacle of the French predominating. The spectacle is minister at Washington, Senor Walker. Does Not Doubt the Issue.

Concerning the negotiations between Russia and Japan, Count Cassini avers that his government. "in the effort to bring the negotiations to a peaceful conclusion did all that dignity would permit, and offered to give assurances again that the sovereignty of the empire of China in Manchuria would be recognized. Having made this marked concession solely for the interest of peace, my government awaited the Japanese answer in the expectation that it would at least be diplomatic in character, and would furnish the basis for the furtherance of the negotiations to a satisfactory conclusion. Before the Russian minister at Tokio could deliver this reply, the Japanese answer came, not through the regular channels, but as a torpedo attack at midnight. And now that war has come, Russia does not doubt the issue."
